Investor News No. 39/2026: Dataprocés wins first German advisory assignment through partnership with Lexis & Rother

Dataprocés has entered into an agreement with a new German municipality to deliver a comprehensive school development plan. The municipality was introduced to Dataprocés through the Company's strategic partnership with Lexis & Rother Partnerschaftsgesellschaft.

The assignment includes, among other things, student population forecasts, analyses of school capacity and facilities, as well as assessments of the municipality's future need for school places and physical infrastructure. Based on these analyses, Dataprocés will prepare recommendations for the future organisation and development of the municipality's school system.

The agreement represents the first tangible sale resulting from the strategic partnership and the transfer of activities from Lexis & Rother, which Dataprocés announced in June 2026. As part of the partnership, Lexis & Rother refers relevant advisory and software opportunities to Dataprocés, while Lexis & Rother's founder, Ulrike Lexis, contributes her extensive experience from the German municipal market.

The assignment supports Dataprocés' strategy of establishing a stronger professional and commercial position in the German municipal market. While the advisory services generate revenue in their own right, they also provide Dataprocés with access to new municipalities and a deeper understanding of their needs. Over time, this may create opportunities for the sale of Dataprocés' software solutions in areas including forecasting, capacity planning and municipal management information.

Kasper Lund Nødgaard, Chief Executive Officer of Dataprocés, comments:

"It is very encouraging that our partnership with Lexis & Rother has already resulted in its first concrete agreement. The assignment fits directly with the capabilities we are building in Germany and at the same time gives us the opportunity to establish a relationship with yet another German municipality. Our ambition is both to build a strong advisory business and to use our professional expertise and municipal relationships as the foundation for the sale and development of scalable software solutions. This is exactly the model that our partnership with Lexis & Rother is designed to support."

The agreement does not change Dataprocés' published guidance for the 2026/27 financial year.
