Our long term ambition and next growth chapter

RTX Investor Day 2026: Building tomorrow's RTX from today's strengths

Today, RTX A/S hosts an Investor Day 2026, giving investors a deeper look at how the company is executing its strategy toward 2030. The direction is an evolution, not a reinvention: RTX will take a larger role for its customers using the technology, relationships and execution capabilities it already has.

RTX's financial ambitions toward 2030 are unchanged: double-digit average annual revenue growth and an EBITDA margin above 15% by 2030.

From product supplier to infrastructure partner

RTX's ambition is to be the wireless infrastructure partner for critical communication. Structural trends support this: digitalisation, labour shortages, connected care, higher demands on resilience, and the growing value of data and automation. The direction rests on four shifts:

- Market expansion: strategic positions in healthcare, frontline operations and critical communication.
- Stronger partnerships: deepening long-standing OEM partnerships while selectively broadening the ecosystem.
- Value chain expansion: from hardware built to specification toward platforms and integrated solutions.
- Solution sales: a growing share of software, cloud and lifecycle revenue.
